Presentation Explores Researching Your Home

Coffey County Museum in Burlington, KS will host “Researching Your Home and the People Who Lived There,” a presentation and discussion by Diana Staresinic-Deane on Saturday, August 24, 2019, at 1:00 p.m. at the Coffey County Museum, 1101 Neosho Street, Burlington, Kansas. Members of the community are invited to attend the free program. Contact the Coffey County Museum at 888-877-2653 for more information. The program is made possible by Humanities Kansas.

Researching a property—whether an old home, a new business, or a section of pastureland—can do more than tell us the history of a space; it can also help us build a human connection to the people who came before us and the history they experienced. This presentation helps participants consider creative ways to study documents and assemble a meaningful narrative with information found through research.

Diana Staresinic-Deane is the Executive Director of the Franklin County Historical Society and the Old Depot Museum in Ottawa.

Diana Staresinic-Deane

“New researchers will feel empowered to take their first researching steps,” said Staresinic-Deane. “Researchers who have been stymied by a dead end might just find the bread crumbs they need to progress.”

“Researching Your Home and the People Who Lived There” is part of Humanities Kansas's Movement of Ideas Speakers Bureau, featuring presentations and workshops designed to share stories that inspire, spark conversations that inform, and generate insights that strengthen civic engagement.

For more information about “Researching Your Home and the People Who Lived There” in Burlington contact the Coffey County Museum at 888-877-2653.

About Humanities Kansas

HUMANITIES KANSAS

A Movement of Ideas

James Vincent Coombs and the Kansas College

James Vincent Coombs was born in New Brunswick, Indiana, in 1849. He attended the Academy of Ladoga and the Philadelphia School of Oratory and Elocution. In 1877, he graduated from the Central Indiana Normal School and then graduated from the Chicago University in 1882. After graduation, Coombs became a teacher in the public schools. After a few years, he was elected president of Central Indiana Normal School and then East Illinois College for two years. In 1883, Coombs became the professor of history and literature in Eureka College (Illinois).

J. V. Coombs began seeking a town to start a new college in Kansas. He visited 35 different towns on this quest. During April 1884, he visited Burlington and determined that Burlington was the best place in the state for a college.

The Kansas College and Normal School in Burlington, Kansas, was chartered by the state of Kansas in October 1884. The board of trustees of the new college were J. M. Lane, president; H. L. Jarboe, vice-president; A. C. Majors, secretary; Dr. W. Fosborn, treasurer; Warren Crandall, D. V. Mott, J. V. Coombs, Charles Puffer and Harrison Kelley. The board positions would hold office for three years. Anyone subscribing and paying $25 to the college fund were entitled to vote for the trustees.

There were six different location possibilities in Burlington for the school; (1) south of town, (2) two blocks west of Missouri Pacific depot, (3) west on Neosho Street, (4) on the King property northwest of town, (5) north on third street and (6) the park west of the courthouse. The final location for the college was decided on Reserve No. 2, the present site of the Coffey County Museum. The city deeded Reserve 2 to the college on December 4, 1884, with the stipulation that if the college failed, the land would revert back to the city.

On January 1, 1885, Professor J. V. Coombs was elected president of Kansas College for five years.

The first term of the Kansas College started on January 6, 1885, in the upstairs of the newly built Major's building in Burlington. The Major's building was owned by A. C. Majors and was located downtown on Neosho street where present day Veterans' Park is located.

The faculty consisted of J. V. Coombs, R. S. Gleason, P. F. Lent and W. E. Husselman. Several weeks after the start of classes, Gleason ran off with some money and left bills for the college. C. W.

Prettyman would then join the faculty.

The first courses taught at Kansas College were in all commercial and common branches, Latin algebra, rhetoric, and elocution.

The college offered night classes the following week of the start of the college. The night classes consisted of arithmetic, grammar, reading and penmanship.

The college building was to be 50' x 80' and 40' from the ground up. The first floor was to be 12 feet tall, the middle floor 13 feet and the top floor 17 feet. During March of 1885, the college building started to be built. By the end of April, a 50' x 80 stone foundation wall was finished above the middle of the first story window frames.

During the June 3, 1885 Burlington City Council meeting, a petition was presented for a $10,000 bond to aid in the erection and completion of Kansas College building located on Reserve #2 in Burlington. The voting took place on June 16. A total of 411 voters turned out to cast their votes on the bond issue. The vote for the bonds failed 204-207.

At the July 1, 1885, Burlington City Council meeting, a petition for $12,000 college bonds was presented for the purpose of constructing a public building for the use as a college building. The petition was signed by G. N. McConnell, W. J. Sanders, Jas. M. Baldwin and 140 voters. The bonds were voted on July 24 in what the The Burlington Independent called the “dirtiest election ever held in Burlington.” Floating votes were being bought from $2 to $8. In the end, the bonds lost by three votes.

A meeting was held on August 4 in the Majors’ building to decide what steps to take with the college.

Coombs was greatly disappointed in the lack of support from the Burlington community on the building of the Kansas College. He published an article in the Kansas School Journal and the Burlington Independent about his dissatisfaction in the matter. He stated “Burlington has decided that it did not want the college. This is three attempts within two years. Perhaps it is time to quit.” Arrangements were made with Professor Sanders, president of Kansas Normal College, Ft. Scott, Kansas, for the students from Kansas College to attend the school in Ft. Scott. Coombs then enters the lecture field and visited every state. He would die on December 20, 1920. It is unknown what happened to the foundation of the college and when it was torn down.

Pioneer Days 2019

The Coffey County Museum's annual Pioneer Days will be held on Saturday, September 28, 2019, from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the Coffey County Museum.

Attendees will have the opportunity to participate in pioneer activities throughout the museum. Some of the activities include rope making, candle dipping, butter churning, and yarn dolls. The train set in the Asbury Gallery will be running during this times.

All activities are free, but donations are greatly appreciated.

The pioneer activities were formally held in January during the Kansas Day Fundraiser. The fundraiser was renamed Museum Gala and moved to March and the activities were moved to September to month of September.

The museum is looking for volunteers to lead the different activities. If you are interested in volunteering, please contact the museum by email erin@coffeymuseum.org or by phone (888) 877-2653.

Yarn dolls is just one of the many activities that will be offered during Pioneer Days.

Presentation Explores the Brothers Grimm and their Folktales

Coffey County Museum in Burlington, Kansas, will host "Grimm for Grownups," a presentation and discussion by Priscilla Howe on Saturday, October 19, 2019, at 1:00 p.m. at Coffey County Museum, 1101 Neosho Street, Burlington, Kansas. Members of the community are invited to attend the free program. Contact the Coffey County Museum at 888-877-2653 for more information. The program is made possible by Humanities Kansas.

The Brothers Grimm traveled across Europe in the 1800s collecting folktales that eventually became the classic fairytales children read today. However, most were never intended for children. This talk explores the story of Jacob and Wilhelm Grimm and discusses why collecting folktales is important for understanding a community's values and fears.

Priscilla Howe is a freelance storyteller and a 2015 Fulbright Senior Scholar. A former children's librarian, Howe moved to Lawrence in 1993 and became a global storyteller who has shared stories on 4 different continents.

Priscilla Howe

"Stories really aren't just for children. I love the Grimm tales even more as an adult than I did as a child, and I was a story-devouring kid," Howe said. "There's something in these stories that connects us on a deep level. It's like magic."

"Grimm for Grownups" is part of Humanities Kansas's Movement of Ideas Speakers Bureau, featuring presentations and workshops designed to share stories that inspire, spark conversations that inform, and generate insights that strengthen civic engagement.

For more information about "Grimm for Grownups" in Burlington contact the Coffey County Museum at 888-877-2653.

Church & School Restoration

Funds are still being raised to help restore the church and school. The buildings received a foundation lift in 2013. The splits in the siding on the buildings were filled to temporarily fix it until we have funds to replace the boards in poor condition with new boards.

The interior of the building still needs repaired. The last two fundraising events, Night at the Museum: Gatsby Edition and Kansas Day, were fundraisers for the restoration of the buildings. We are also collecting money for this cause. A donation form is located below if you are interested in donating to help restore the church and school buildings. A huge thank you to all of those who have already donated (see List of Donors) and to those who have already attended our fundraisers.

If you have any questions regarding the restoration or how to donate, please contact the museum at (888) 877-2653.
